Workplace Harassment: What It Is and What to Do About It

Course Overview

In 2012 alone, the US Equal Employment Opportunity Commission ordered that $365,400,000 (that is 365.4 million dollars!) be paid out for discrimination and harassment charges. No wonder companies are working to be more proactive in preventing harassment.

But how do you prevent harassment from occurring? What sorts of policies should be in place? What should managers do to protect their employees? And if a complaint is filed, what will we do? All these questions (and more!) will be answered in this two-day workshop.

Course Objectives

This two-day workshop will teach delegates how to:

- Explain what acceptable behavior in the workplace is and what is not, and why.
- Apply the benefits of harassment training.
- Define the various types of harassment, including sexual harassment.
- Assist in creating a harassment policy.
- State some ways to prevent harassment and understand what role they can play.
- Demonstrate some ways to protect themselves from harassment.
- Know what to do if they are harassed or accused of harassment.
- Understand the complaint process, from the complaint to the reply, to mediation or investigation, to a solution.
- Identify situations where mediation is appropriate and understand how mediation works in those situations.
- Describe appropriate solutions for a harassment incident.
- Know what to do if a complaint is false.
- Help their workplace return to normal after a harassment incident.

Target Audience

All individuals and organizations looking to learn more about harassment in the workplace.

Prerequisite

There are no prerequisites for this course.

Duration

- 2 Days

Course Outline

Defining Harassment

This session will look at legal, literary, and reasonable man/woman definitions of harassment.

Defining Sexual Harassment

This session will discuss sexual harassment in a lecture and small group work. Topics covered include the definition of sexual harassment, the components of harassment, and common scenarios that could be construed as harassment.

The Purpose of Training

In this session, we will discuss what kind of harassment training can benefit an organization.

Creating a Harassment Policy

The best way to prevent harassment from occurring is by setting a clear policy, educating employees about it, and enforcing it. We will discuss some basics of creating, implementing, and monitoring a policy, plus some training points.

Other Prevention Strategies

Next, delegates will explore some other ways of preventing harassment in groups.

Nipping it in the Bud

One of the most important prevention strategies is for managers to carefully monitor their workplace. During this session we will use a lecture and a role play to talk about how managers can do this.

Protecting Yourself

There are many things that you can do to minimize your risk of being harassed or of being perceived as a harasser. We will discuss six of them.

What If It Happens to Me?

During this session we will discuss what you can do if someone is harassing you, including techniques for saying no. Delegates will then practice these techniques during a role play.

What If It is Happening to Someone Else?

There will often be situations where a manager thinks or knows that harassment is occurring, but a complaint has not been filed. We will discuss what to do in this situation.

Someone Has Filed a Complaint Against Me!

If you are in the situation where someone has filed a complaint against you, do not panic. There are several steps that you can take to deal with the situation appropriately, all of which will be discussed in detail during this session.

Addressing a Complaint

No matter how proactive you are, most employers receive a harassment complaint at some point in time. We will discuss the four key components of dealing with a complaint fairly and appropriately.

Handling False Complaints

If you suspect that a harassment complaint is false, you must be very careful when dealing with it. This session will discuss some things that you can do in this situation.

Mediation

When the claimant decides to file a complaint, mediation may be offered as an alternative. We will discuss what mediation is, when it is and isn't appropriate, and how the process may work. Delegates will also have an opportunity to role play mediation.

Investigating a Complaint

Investigating harassment complaints often requires special training and skills. During this session, we will cover some basics of investigation, including when a complaint should and should not be investigated, who should be involved, what the investigation process should look like, and how results can be reported.

Making the Decision

During this session we will talk about who should make the final decision about the complaint. We will also discuss when you should involve legal counsel.

Creating Solutions

There are three possible solutions to a harassment complaint: solutions for the complainant, solutions for the respondent, and solutions for the organization. We will explore possibilities for each case during this session.

After It is Over

Once the harassment complaint has been resolved, everyone should try to get back to normal life. This session will discuss how managers and the organization can help employees make this transition.

Skill Application

The afternoon of day two will be spent role playing four stages of the harassment process: the initial consultation with an advisor, the filing of a formal complaint, an investigation, and the decision. Detailed case files are provided with the course.

Workshop Wrap-Up

At the end of the course, delegates will have an opportunity to ask questions and fill out an action plan.
